And Tells Its Story

W. CHAMPION

D. M. SPOHN

J. E. HARTZLER

The highest authority in our school system is the Goshen City School Board. This board is composed of three capable members who work with the superintendent of schools, Mr. Walter. The members of the board are interested not only in the effective handling of executive and financial problems of the schools, but are also concerned about the welfare and progress of the students.

Their efficient guidance and planning have successfully completed another year to add to the splendid record of the past.

YOUTH LOOKING FORWARD

Ralph Waldo Emerson is reported to have said about 106 years ago that "Our young men are without opportunity; people are out of work; the present generation is bankrupt, and we are without hope."

It would be interesting to resurrect the old philosopher and have him review the achievements of the 100 years following his statement. Our railways and highways, telegraph and telephone, radio and air travel, public schools and industrial corporations, and our advancement in science have all been the product of the 100 years since Emerson. It just is not true in any era that youth is without opportunity, or that we are without hope. It is not true today.

Some one said that youth was a blunder; manhood a failure; and that old age was a regret. Certainly youth often blunders, a goodly number of men fail, and frequently old age is a regret. But these things are not necessarily so.

The fact is youth is an opportunity; manhood is an achievement; and old age may and should be a holy memory. There is no opportunity like that of being a boy or a girl. There is no achievement like that of achieving manhood and womanhood; and there is no memory so holy as that of a life well spent, or rather well invested.

Our present world status, particularly our American status, is due to a variety of forces which have been at work for the past several hundred years. Chief among these forces are the influence of modern science; a period of abnormal prosperity and expansion during the past twenty years; a period of economic depression; war and its unfulfilled promises; and finally, an 18th and 19th century civilization which we have evidently outgrown.

The world tomorrow, running true to form, will be an unsettled world. It will be a hard world; a world of new social, economic and international levels; and it will be a world of opportunity.

Youth tomorrow will be charged with the duty and privilege: (1) Of setting up a new superstructure of a better and more efficient civilization, the foundations of which are already being laid by the present generation. (2) Of eliminating war as an accepted institution of international adjustment, and the establishment of world peace through a permanent and authoritative World Court of International Justice. Tomorrow must put an end to war, or war, with the aid of science, will put an end to tomorrow. (3) Of setting up a more just social, industrial and economic order; an order in which men are recognized as "ends" rather than as "means." (4) Of setting up an educational system which educates effectively for tomorrow because tomorrow's problems will be as great as those of any yesterday. It will be a great thing to live tomorrow.

J. E. HARTZLER.

O. L. WALTER

Mr. Walter has shown his ability as a leader, not only by his success in carrying out the duties of a superintendent of schools, but also by his previous service as principal in the Goshen High School. Under his active and intelligent direction, the educational system of the Goshen city schools will go forward.

The entire student body appreciates the fine spirit in which our principal, Mr. Bechtel, has guided the affairs of our school. Always demonstrating an active interest in youth, with understanding and helpfulness for their problems, he is known to us as a friend indeed.

The junior class was well represented in athletics: Floyd Koch, Don Whitmer, Maurice Rhoads, Junior Myers, Charles Keil, Walter Foxx, John Stack, Ted Ogle, Richard Aust, and Maurice Nisley, all of whom won football letters. Nisley was chosen captain of next year's team. Junior Myers, Floyd Koch, and Don Whitmer also won letters in basketball.

Juniors who have consistently ranked high in scholarship are: Stanley Moyer, Gerald Shank, John Oyer, Elizabeth Hershberger, Nancy Latta, and Leona Trump.

Many juniors are members of musical organizations. Outstanding are Doris Bryner, John Oyer, and Stanley Moyer, all of whom won honors in musical contests. Patricia Risdon is well known as a vocalist.

The Class of 1942 has enjoyed this year of various activities, but they eagerly look forward to their next, and last year at GHS under the sponsorship of Miss Beaman and Mr. Shanklin.

The sophomore class returned to G. H. S. this year with 177 members. Our sponsors are Miss Stutz and Mr. Greenwalt, who were chosen last year. The large number of sophomores on the Honor Roll speaks well for the class. The year's scholastic leaders were Donald Berry, first, Dave Culp, second, and Hari McDougall, third.

The sophomores also entered into the field of athletics. Rollin Hoover won his letter in football, Loyal Culp, Dave Culp, Phil Bowser, and Walt Miller were outstanding in basketball.

A number of musical sophomores are members of the band and orchestra. Several of them entered into solo competition at the band and orchestra contests.

Most members of the class belong to and enjoy, one or more of the clubs and organizations which add so much to school life.

The sophomores have had one meeting, at which the officers were elected, but are planning on a party this spring.

This class is very rich in musical talent. In addition to fourteen members in the concert band and two in the marching band, there are many representatives in the orchestra, glee club, and choir.

The freshmen have been active in the various clubs. Richard Hay and Bob Rippey are in the Scribblers Club. There are several members of the Class of 1944 in the Science and Camera Clubs. About thirty-seven girls are members of the Sunshine Society. This year, for the first time, Goshen High School has a Jr. Hi-Y for freshman and sophomore boys. The freshman boys have been quite active in this new club.

The Class of '44 is represented in athletics, too. Many boys went out for football last fall, and this winter some good basketball players developed.

With the able assistance of the sponsors, Mr. Beck and Miss Smith, we hope to continue this good work.

A HISTORY OF THE CRIMSON

This edition of the Crimson is the thirty-fourth that has been published in the history of Goshen High School. It is interesting to glance back through past editions and see what they were like.

It was in February, 1907, that the need for a school publication developed to the point that the students of Goshen High School, then the only six year high school in the United States, published the first Crimson. At that time it was a monthly magazine published six times that year. The successful work of Maynard Simond, the editor-in-chief, served as a standard for future publications.

From this time until 1920 a magazine was published by the student body. These issues averaged thirty-two pages, published about nine times a year. The editor in 1908 was Charles Wagner. In 1909 the Crimson edited by Frank Abbott emphasized school spirit. With Maurice Elliot as chief-of-staff the 1910 Crimson included a final commencement number of annual proportions. In 1911 John Abbott, a brother of the third editor, published a very spirited edition. Ned Newell was the editor of the 1912 magazine. Interesting and popular Crimsons were published in 1913 and 1914 by Lester Blough and Walter Kester, respectively. The editor of the 1915 edition was Mitchell Charnley.

Frederick Winterhoff and his staff produced an authoritative archive in their work during 1915-1916. In spite of the war, Andrew Sallade published a splendid magazine in 1917. In the years 1918 and 1919, Editors Paul Kinney and Warren McCumsey had to reduce their magazines greatly. In 1920 the senior class used the money ordinarily spent for printing expenses in other ways, and there was no Crimson.

All of these Crimsons were interesting. The monthly issues had contents much like our present Tomahawk. The commencement numbers usually containing photographs of classes and organizations were similar to later Crimsons.

From 1921 to 1924 one annual was published each year by the senior class and representatives chosen from other classes. The editors were: 1921, Kenneth Stambaugh; 1922, Harold Bechtel; 1923, James Harrison; 1924, Rosemary Harper. The 1924 book featured the new high school building. Some photographs in previous Crimsons seemed unfamiliar until we "researchers" realized that the present Junior high was at that time the high school. But the pictures from 1924 on are familiar ones of the spacious new building constructed during 1922 and 1923.

In 1925 the Crimson, with Herbert Greene as chief, was again a monthly magazine, but all succeeding Crimsons have been annuals. The editors since 1925 have been: 1926, Margaret Hawk; 1927, Herbert Zook; 1928, William Hulwick; 1929, John Fobes; 1930, Betty Stout; 1931, Valeria Barnard; 1932, Jane Rummel; 1933, Mary Louise Barnhart; 1934, Waldo Lehman; 1935, Richard Umble; 1936, Bill Bullock; 1937, Tyson Carpenter; 1938, Donald Yoder; 1939, Kenneth Lehman; 1940, Robert Hawthorn; 1941, Arthur Weaver.

We hope that the Crimson of 1941 will keep up the glorious tradition of the past and help set a pattern for the future.

The band was very successful last year at the various contests. For the first time in the history of Goshen High School, the Goshen band went to the national contest held at Battle Creek, Michigan, and second division honors were won.

This year's band consists of sixty-eight pieces, and it played at all pep-sessions, football, and basketball games. Two successful benefits were held for the music department, a concert by the Indiana University Band and the movie "Bittersweet."

This year the band participated in the district contest at Elkhart. Many members of the band also won honors in the various solo and ensemble contests held at Butler and LaPorte, Indiana, in April. Much credit for our fine marching and playing band is due the director, Mr. Brinklow, who gives unstintingly of his time, loyalty, and devotion in the interest of music.

{ MR. BRINKLOW
{ MISS BRITTAN

This was "orchestra year"—that is, the year for the orchestra to attend the national contest. It was, therefore, only natural that our orchestra, consisting of sixty-four pieces, under the splendid and capable direction of Mr. Brinklow and Miss Brittan, should concentrate every effort to make possible the attendance of our musicians at the national contest, held this year at Flint, Michigan, in May.

During the year, the orchestra played for the junior and senior plays, at the Elkhart Teachers' Association meeting, and in the concert, given by all groups of the music department, early in May. Members of the orchestra participated successfully in the solo and ensemble contests.

The orchestra is most grateful to the Music Parents' Club members for their continuous interests and support during the year. Their loyalty and assistance was invaluable.

SUNSHINE SOCIETY

The Sunshine Society, which is an organization for all girls in the high schools of Indiana, has as its object "helpfulness and kindness to others." The present officers of the Goshen Chapter, which was established in 1926, are:

President	. . . . .	MARY OYER
Vice-President	. . . . .	PAT RISDON
Treasurer	. . . . .	NORMA MILLER
Secretary	. . . . .	PATRICIA PAYNE
Sponsor	. . . . .	MISS WAHL

The society's goal of goals for several years has been the purchasing of a Hammond Electric Organ for the school. This "dream"—long cherished by the sponsor, Miss Wahl, and the girls—finally was realized in April, when the organ was bought and presented to G. H. S. Thus a "dream" did come true!

WAHOO CLUB

The Wahoo Club enjoyed its third year as an organization this year. It was organized way back in 1939 by a few fellows and its sponsor, Mr. Greenwalt. These fellows were interested in a good booster club for Goshen High School. They made it a real booster club, too. Then last year and this year the club prospered more and held a few pep-sessions. The Wahoo Club is of the best for advancing school-spirit and pep.

HEALTH COUNCIL

The Health Council consists of three girls from each class. They are selected during their freshman year and remain in the group until graduation. The members this year are as follows: Frances Beck, Jessie Sunthimer, and Julia Schrock, seniors; Peg Amos, Glendora Burke, and Rose Reith, juniors; Hari McDougall, Mary Jean Franklin, and Phyllis Hartzler, sophomores; and Mary Louis Unzicker, Carol Hollinger, and Irma Bowser, freshmen.

The girls sell apples and ice cream bars, and conduct a poster contest each year. This year they also purchased three new bedspreads for the health room. The duty of the council is to aid the nurse, Miss Nixon, in providing healthful surroundings for the students.

JOURNALISM CLUB

A new organization, the Journalism Club, was introduced to the students of Goshen High School by Mr. Blanding.

As every good thing has a purpose in life, so does the Journalism Club. Since the club was so new and the journalistic quality of each member was not known at the beginning of the year, officers were not elected until a further study of the ability of each person could be determined. The efforts of the Journalism Club are as follows: mainly, to keep the parents and townspeople informed of the activities of the high school's young people; to stimulate the growth of friendship among members; and to give journalistic experience to each member of the club.

SCRIBBLERS CLUB

As Miss Galentine resigned from her school work last year, Scribblers chose a new sponsor. This position has been ably filled by Miss Deniston. Several vacancies this year made it possible to accept an unusual number of new members, twelve manuscripts being accepted from those submitted.

Regular meetings were held on the first and third Thursdays of each month. As the purpose of the club is to encourage creative writing, programs were devoted to the reading and criticism of the members' contributions. A book which contained the best articles was made.

Social meetings were a party at the home of Ruth Mendenhall in March, and an outdoor picnic in May.

"LE CERCLE FRANCAIS"

(French Club)

The fall of 1940 marked the birth of a new club in Goshen High School. This organization is called "Le Cercle Francais." It is open to students who have passed successfully at least one semester of French and others who are interested in keeping up their current history and study of France.

In this, our first year, we enjoyed an initial membership of nineteen. We hold meetings on the third Monday in each month. Our programs are varied and include outside speakers, reports by members on French life and history, and such activities as playing games and singing songs in French.

JUNIOR CLASSICAL LEAGUE

The Junior Classical League is a nation wide organization whose purpose is "to foster interest in classical studies among the youth of the nation." The newly-organized Goshen chapter, composed of advanced Latin students and sponsored by Miss Wahl, has no officers. It holds regular meetings once each week during the Cicero class period and occasional social meetings in the evening. Roman customs are carried out as much as possible in the high point of the year, the annual banquet.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

The Chemistry Club of 1940-41 met on the first and third Tuesdays of the month. The various programs and parties were planned around the motto "Science, Sense, and Nonsense." Outside speakers were invited several times to add interest and variety.

As a project, the club presented to the chemistry department a set of reference books for the use of future chemistry classes.

SCIENCE CLUB

The Science Club, sponsored by Mr. Beck, is composed of students who are interested in the progress of science.

During the first semester talks on interesting new discoveries of science were given by different members of the club. Following these talks informal discussions were held on the subject.

The second semester programs continued in the same manner as the first. Dr. Brown of Chicago University gave an excellent demonstration of "Liquid Air."

SENIOR HI-Y

The Senior Hi-Y has been very successful this year in the following projects: donating baskets of food to unfortunate families at Thanksgiving and Christmas; organizing a Junior Hi-Y composed of freshman and sophomore boys; and rewriting the constitution and by-laws of the club.

Joe Detwiler, this year's program chairman, has furnished us with many interesting speakers, including: Rev. T. V. Dillon, Mr. Otto Binkele, Rev. Cleon Swarts, Dr. Friedman, and Mr. Levi Hartzler.

Social activities included a party held at the home of Rev. Dillon in March and a Father and Son Banquet held in May.

This year's officers attended the State Officers Convention and the club sent Joe Detwiler as a representative to the National Hi-Y Congress. This year's group was indeed one of the outstanding chapters in the state.

JUNIOR HI-Y

The senior Hi-Y formed this new organization for the freshmen and sophomores. Most of the year was spent in ironing out affairs for a good, well balanced club.

We also had very interesting speeches by Dr. Friedman, an Austrian refugee, Rev. Dillon, Father Patterson, and Mr. Binkele.

We enjoyed a swimming party with the older club in January at the "Y". On March 29, three of our members journeyed to Indianapolis to attend the state convention. Most of the club went to Ligonier on April 22 for the district convention.

CHOIR AND GLEE CLUB

Vocal music has received more attention this year than in previous years. With an additional practice each week, Mr. Brinklow developed two well-balanced singing groups. The Girls' Glee Club, composed of about thirty members, and the Choir, composed of fifty-six members, took part in many excellent programs. The Glee Club participated in the annual spring concert and presented several numbers at the Commencement exercises. The Choir gave the Christmas program and the Holy Week service before the student body. They also took part in the spring concert and presented several numbers at Baccalaureate.

HOME ECONOMICS

The Home Economics Club motto "Onward ever, backward never," was carried through very efficiently this year. The aims are to promote social affairs, to develop friendship, and to interest the girls in various hobbies.

The club carried out the "friendship" program by giving the Christmas baskets and having social parties.

All of the high school girls were invited to hear the most outstanding program of the year, a talk by Miss Estelle Nesbitt, head dietitian for five years in a hospital in China. She used as her subject, "Chinese Foods," and "Why a High School Girl Should Eat Breakfast."

Miss Peckinpough and Miss Wright are the club sponsors.

HISTORY CLUB

The History Club entering its second year of existence with Miss Smith as sponsor, was very active during the year. Its contribution to the school was an assembly program on Indiana Day, December 11. This organization hopes eventually to give an Indiana state flag to the school.

A state charter was received in February. One of the most active members, Joan McFarren, is vice-president of the state organization—the Indiana Junior Historical Society.

The state meeting was held in April at Technical High School, Indianapolis, with Miss Smith and delegates attending.

CAMERA CLUB

This year the “minicam” (camera) enthusiasts have delved deep into the mysteries of the whys and wherefores of camera lore, lenses, film, developing, and enlarging compositions. With several serious workers in the group, we had a very fine club exhibit this spring. The Camera Club had a special project, the informal Crimson snap-shots. These show the splendid work done by the club this year.

G. A. A.

Thirty-nine girls and Miss Gene Fortune, the new sponsor, were initiated into the Girls' Athletic Association this year. A swimming party at the South Bend Natatorium and an all-day basketball session were the main diversions of the club.

In order to secure money to buy sweaters, monograms, and letters for deserving members, Redskin emblems were sold, concessions were sponsored at games, and an intramural basketball game was held.

The year's activities were concluded by the annual senior banquet held at Goshen Hotel. At this time awards were presented to those members who earned the required number of points.

AG. CLUB

The Ag. Club, which is new this year, is under the sponsorship of Mr. Sabin.

The aim of the club is to promote good fellowship among farm youth and encourage farming.

The club, which has taken over the old F. F. A., has an enrollment of forty boys who are interested in farming.

The pest contest was again carried out with the losers setting up the feed.

TOMAHAWK STAFF

This year the staff for the Tomahawk was chosen from the entire student body. The staff has worked diligently to present news of the student activities and to foster school projects.

The Tomahawk is a member of the Quill and Scroll, an International Society for high school Journalists.

FORUM CLUB

A very wide-awake organization of Goshen High School this year is the Forum Club.

It has nineteen members and is sponsored by Miss Beaman and Mr. Shanklin.

The activities of the club center around public speaking, debate, and oratorical work. Each year the club finances a trip to Purdue for some of the debate students and in the spring sponsors an oratorical contest, which is open to all students.

The meetings are held every other week at the high school and various parties are held throughout the year.

Several plays were presented this year by the Forum Club before the entire student body and were very well received.

"G" CLUB

The "G" Club is an organization formed to create better feeling among athletes in Goshen High School, and to foster school spirit. The club consists of boys who have earned letters in football, basketball, or track.

Activities of the club included the sponsoring of a pep-session and the adoption of standard membership pins. A party was held in May.

An important ruling of the club is concerned with the wearing of the "G" sweaters; a fine of fifty cents is charged to the member who allows his sweater to be worn by someone else.

AUTO MECHANICS

The Auto Mechanics Class was started in 1923 when this building was new.

At that time the course was known as an Industrial Arts Class. The periods were three-fourths of an hour in length; and Mr. Kintigh was required to handle three classes a day, each class devoting two periods to their work.

In 1925 the course was changed to the Smith Hughes plan. This plan cut the classes to one each day; one period devoted to related subjects and three periods, one hour in length, taken in shop.

The department is one of the best equipped in the state and any student, if mechanically inclined at all, has a good opportunity to learn a trade and be placed in a good paying position after graduation.

Twenty-two rear axles of all types, twenty-two transmissions of all makes, and five groups of gas engines are studied. The electrical repair on generators, starters, and ignition systems is given the latter part of the second semester.

The boys are required to work on all shop units. Then in the latter part of the second semester, if grades permit, they are allowed to work on customers' cars brought in the shop. Generally this work is done by the advanced students.

All special tools are furnished by the school; but regular tools like socket sets, screwdrivers, and end wrenches must be furnished by the student.

Providing they live up to the rules of the shop and keep their grades up to an A, the boys are given a certificate signed by the School Board, Superintendent, Principal, and instructor. These certificates are something to work for, and a boy receiving one must be of the finest type.

“FROM THE SOUL OF THE ORGAN”

A majestic and triumphant chord filled the the auditorium, thrilling the hearts of all who sat within the walls. Then a note was softly struck, but was distinctly heard in all parts of the room. When the last mellow tones had ceased, the audience sat so quietly that the very atmosphere was tense. The lovely music from the soul of the organ had ascended with beauty toward the heavens in glorification of the Divine.

A dignified, blue-eyed woman arose and smiled at the many faces before her; she was Miss Wahl, the well-loved sponsor of the largest organization in the school.

“A few years ago, a small group of girls in this school listened with interest to a new project presented to them. It was with some hesitancy and no little misgiving that the capable young president told them of her desire to have an electric organ for the school and community. The members of the Sunshine Society nodded their heads in unanimous assent when Jean Harter, their leader, asked—“Can you do it?” . . .

The people of Goshen seemed to have complete confidence in this organization and have shown their approval by their numerous generous gifts. . . .

The work has not been tedious as you may have suspected, but has been a pleasure to all who have had a part in it. . . .

The reason we so much wanted Goshen High School to be the recipient of this gift, was, that we felt the need for the furtherance of music in our educational system. . . .

This organ is a symbol of each one of our lives. The keys are in major and minor. The two are exceedingly beautiful—one denoting a happy mood—the other a meditative expression. We are not entirely satisfied always to be gay—neither are we content to be constantly serious. But a touch of both makes for a well-rounded life. . . .

To you students we leave this Hammond Electric Organ. Your reverent attitude is proof to us that you appreciate this lovely instrument; and we trust that you will enjoy it for many years to come, and that it will be an incentive to you who are here today, to live harmoniously with your fellow men and to be in permanent tune with the Creator of all things beautiful.” . . .

A solemn benediction descended from on high as a gentle Amen rose softly—“from the soul of the organ.”

MAGDALENE BROSZY.

ATHLETICS

WILLIAM (BUD) KERR—FOOTBALL COACH

Mr. Kerr, Goshen High School's new football coach, was born at Tarrytown, New York. Later he moved to Newburgh, where he attended school. At Notre Dame, Bud, (as almost everyone calls him), made the varsity squad in his sophomore year. In his senior year he became a member of the first team. He completed his college football career by polling fifth in the All-Star poll and by winning recognition on the mythological teams of the official board of sports writers and announcers.

Mr. Kerr came to G. H. S. in September, 1940, from Notre Dame University, where he starred as an all-American end on the 1939 football team. He has charge of the boys' physical education classes and also teaches history and health.

We hope Mr. Kerr will have as much success with his football teams at Goshen High School as he had playing football for the University of Notre Dame.

LORIN EVANS—BASKETBALL AND TRACK COACH

Mr. Evans was born in Tipp City, Ohio. He graduated from Tipp High School, and then entered Manchester College at North Manchester, Indiana. Mr. Evans was most prominent in football, basketball, and baseball, being a four year man in each. In 1940 Manchester College honored him as being one of the best all-around students ever to attend that college.

After graduating from college in 1929, Mr. Evans was appointed basketball coach at New Paris High School, where he served six years.

In 1935 he came to Goshen High School and has served as basketball and track coach and assistant in coaching football. Beside all these activities Mr. Evans teaches commerce and industry, world history, and supervises the intramural sports in the high school.

FOOTBALL

ROW 1: B. Juday, D. Rumsey, F. Koch, C. Kiel, M. Hile, T. Bullock, W. Foxx, J. Schnoebelen, J. Detwiler. ROW 2: D. Goodenough, L. Paflas, A. Coggan, J. Stack, Jr. Myers, Jr. Gardner, T. Ogle, M. Rhoades, L. Cripe, M. Nisley. ROW 3: S. Pfohl, R. Hoover, L. Claybaugh, V. Peck, J. Tom, D. Whitmer, R. Berkey, D. Shriner, D. Kercher. ROW 4: R. Roose, B. Shellne, B. Rogers, R. Rumsey, Coach Evans, Coach Kerr, G. Stealy, J. Whitmer, J. Loser, C. Detwiler, trainer.

Several changes were made in the Goshen High School faculty for the year 1940-41. The football fans and players were mostly interest in the change of football coach. William (Bud) Kerr replaced "Hermie" Byers for that position.

Various circumstanes prevented Mr. Kerr from holding spring football practice; and in addition, an infantile paralysis epidemic delayed the opening game, leaving Coach Kerr only two weeks from the time he met the entire squad and began practice until the first contest. Mr. Kerr introduced a new style of play, similar to the one used by Notre Dame. (If anyone thinks that switching types of play is easy, ask Maurie Rhoades, Ted Ogle, Lamar Paflas, or Sid Gardner.)

The Red Menace opened their football season undaunted by these set-backs. The game with Washington (S. B.) was canceled, and a game at Michigan City opened the schedule. The score stood at 7-7 until the final minutes of the ball game, when a touchdown by the Red Devils changed the score in the last three minutes to 13-7.

The following week the G. H. S. gridders romped over the Garrett Railroaders 26-0 in revenge.

However, they spent all their strength on Garrett; so the Kerrmen were easy victims for a mighty Mishawaka powerhouse. Goshen went down in humble defeat, 44-0.

The Red Menace bounced back like a rubber ball, and they snatched a startling and very surprising victory from Mansfield and Co. of LaPorte.

Again Goshen had tasted too much victory. The Warsaw team won 26-22; although Goshen had previously been given the edge on the game.

It seems that the tomahawks of Kerr's proteges were getting dull. From this time on they made little showing. In the game with Central, however, the team looked very impressive. They were given not a chance in a hundred, but the Goshen eleven were in possession of the ball on the Bears' two-yard line with the score 19-12 for Central and five minutes to play. But Goshen fumbled; and the opposition recovered the ball and kicked out. Goshen again fumbled; and then they folded up, allowing Central to add another touchdown. The score was 26-12 when the final gun sounded.

Goshen lost to Huntington 25-7, and also to Elkhart 24-0.

The totals for the year show two wins and six losses, a better record than was obtained last year. Regardless of the season's record, hats off to Bud Kerr and his hard working gridders, and better luck next year!

Senior letter men for the 1940-41 season were: Ted Bullock, Don Goodenough, Clem Schoebelen, Sid Gardner, Captain Max Hile, Dick Rumsey, Al Coggan, Larry Cripe, Bob Juday, and Joe Detwiler. Under-classmen include Dick Aust, Rollin Hoover, Charley Kiel, Floyd Koch, Junior Myers, Walt Foxx, Ted Ogle, John Stack, Maurice Rhoades, Don Whitmer, and Maurie Nisley.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

The girls are very privileged and honored to have with them this year a new teacher, Miss Gene Fortune, who already has won the admiration of her pupils and the many friends she has made.

The most popular sport in which girls participate is basketball. An inter-class tourney and a gym class tourney were held during the year. The seniors, sophomores, and freshmen won two games apiece, but the juniors lost all three of their games. The third period gym class proved the victor in their tourney.

Volley-ball and baseball are fairly well liked by the girls and many take an active part in one or both of the sports.

Although girls sports are very limited compared to those in which boys participate, the enthusiasm the girls show toward athletics makes up for the fact that they cannot take part in all sports.

In the winter months the girls may go to the gym to play basketball on Tuesday noons and Thursday evenings after school.

TENNIS

Another sport, beside football, sorely affected by the infantile paralysis epidemic last fall was tennis. Because of this delay the tennis squad was very late in getting started. They played a few minor matches, and about the middle of October the Goshen squad, coached by Stanley Schenck, entered a conference tournament at Elkhart. They finished in sixth place, out of a possible seven. However, it should be noted that of all the boys on the tennis squad last fall only one, Bill Hostetler, is a senior.

Members of the tennis team returning next season will be Stanley Moyer, Dave Culp, Phil Bowser, Maurice McCally and Bill Sheffer.

The team probably will be built around Moyer and Culp. With some practice these fellows should be able to make a better team than Goshen has had in the past few years.

TRACK

When Coach Evans began his coaching career at G. H. S., he had a total of nine boys on his track team. This year forty have tried for positions. Track has grown by leaps and bounds at Goshen High School and, as shown by the records, our teams are growing better and better each year. The track schedule is completely filled, and up-to-date no meets have been postponed because of weather.

Bob Miller has been the principal point-getter in the mile, Bill Ogle and Richard Fleck in the half-mile, Coggan and Rarick in the 440, and Schnoebelen, Lewis and Shannahan in the 220 and 100 yard dashes. On the mile relay team are Coggan, Miller, Rohrer, and Rarick. The one-half mile relay team is composed of Schnoebelen, Shannahan, Lewis, and Foxx. In the field events Goshen is slightly weak, although great improvement has been shown since the beginning of the season. In the pole vault Bud Rogers, a freshman, usually contributes several points. Also Phil Bowser, Dick Evans, and Floyd Wortinger are doing well. Whitmer, Koch, and Foxx take care of the broad jump. Whit's best jump this year was about 20 feet 2 inches. In the high jump Bob Miller, Don Whitmer, Floyd Koch, Walt Foxx, and Charles Cook carry on for dear old G. H. S. Floyd Koch, Bob Rumsey, and Ted Ogle do the tossing in the shot put.

The Red Ramblers' track schedule is as follows:

April 7—here—Goshen, 55 $\frac{2}{3}$ ; Warsaw, 52 $\frac{1}{3}$ .

April 10—there—Goshen, 50; Garret, 59.

April 15—here—Goshen, 39; South Side (Ft. Wayne), 72.

April 17—here—Underclassmen county meet, won by Goshen.

April 18—here—Goshen, 61; Elkhart, 48.

April 23—there—Goshen,  $49\frac{1}{3}$ ; Riley,  $59\frac{2}{3}$ .

April 25—here—Quadrangular—Nappanee, Jimtown, Wakarusa, Goshen. Won by Goshen,  $106\frac{1}{3}$ .

April 29—Open.

May 3—Quadrangular—LaPorte, Goshen, Michigan City, Elkhart. First, Elkhart; second, Michigan City; third, Goshen; fourth, LaPorte.

May 8—there—Goshen-Elkhart.

May 10—Conference at East Chicago.

May 13—Freshmen-Sophomore meet at Elkhart.

May 17—Sectional at Elkhart.

May 24—State at Indianapolis.

CROSS COUNTRY

Last year's track coach, Mr. Evans, instituted cross country running as a fall training for future track participants. Last fall the Goshen boys didn't do anything spectacular; however, the training received is showing now among the runners in the current track season. Boys who participated in this sport were: Bob Miller, Doug Randolph, Bill Ogle, Bill Miller, Richard Fleck, Joe Lewis, John Rarick, and Bill Shannahan.

GOLF

This year G. H. S. has sponsored an attempt to bring back golf as a competitive sport. For two years the golf team has been feebly struggling to survive, but now, through the able assistance of Mr. Donald C. Blanding, the team has finally come to life. Bob Priser and Bob Lindhorn, who have been members ever since the squad's beginning, have shown vast improvement over their past work. Other members who are on the squad include Pete Bickel, Art Huber, Russel Wortinger, Jim Howard, and Howard Rohn.

Through the efforts of Bob Priser and Mr. Blanding the golf team has been able to secure quite a few matches. Two matches each with Elkhart, Mishawaka, Elmhurst, John Adams and Riley of South Bend are being arranged. Beside that, the golfers will play at LaPorte in the LaPorte Invitational and also at Indianapolis in the state meet. This year the G. H. S. golfers will use as their home course South Shore Country Club, which is located at Lake Wawasee.

THE JOURNEY

(An Allegory of High School Life.)

Student was a youth of seventeen who was making a long journey to a place named Graduation, in search of the key Diploma. This key was said to unlock the gate, Job, of a long chamber called Hard Work, which led finally to that great and magnificent castle, Success.

Student had come a long way; and now as he started on the last lap of his journey, he bore proudly after his name that much coveted title, Senior.

Student Senior was not traveling alone, for with him was his pet cat, Knowledge. As he crossed the many brooks and streams named Classes, aided by bridges which were called Teachers, Student Senior had to stop to fish for Facts, which he fed to Knowledge; for Knowledge was a very large cat with an insatiable appetite.

Occasionally Student Senior would decide he could do without Facts and the aid of the Teachers, so he would try to skip across Classes. But in this he was usually unsuccessful, for someone had placed slippery blue clay called Blue Slips along the bank for the very purpose of preventing the skipping of Classes. Student Senior didn't attempt this often, however, for he knew that some day he might slip into the water and be drowned by the current into the perilous whirlpool of Exams.

Student Senior also had to pass through many fields called Study Time, and stop to catch field mice of Home Work for Knowledge. This he found so difficult and tiresome that he frequently neglected getting Home Work and spent a great deal of time in the woods of Extra Curricular Activities. Then poor Knowledge would grow thin and weak.

One day Student Senior didn't feel like fishing for Facts. Instead he played around at the edge of the class and caused much disturbance. Then as he was crossing to leave the class, he fell into a hole called a U, which was made by the Teacher. He should have been expecting it since it was the fourth time he had been caught by a U. Never before had the U caused him to fall through to the water below and into the whirlpool of Exams; but each U was more dangerous than the one before, and this time Student Senior suddenly found himself floundering in the midst of the turmoil of Exams and being carried closer and closer to the dangerous falls, Failure. In bewilderment and alarm he looked about for Knowledge, but was unable to find him. Then he saw near the shore an animal named Cheating, which looked very similar to his pet but had a white stripe down its back. Student Senior was tempted to call upon him for help; but remembering that Cheating was a false friend and that those who had anything to do with him were usually sorry in the end, he decided against it. Blue Slips helped only to make things more difficult, for if Student Senior did manage to reach the shore it was too slippery for him to crawl out. All the time he was being drawn nearer and nearer to Failure, when suddenly to his joy and relief he saw Knowledge approaching. But when he saw how thin and weak Knowledge had grown, his joy faded, for Knowledge had once been a strong animal and could have given him aid. Still having some faith in his Knowledge, Student Senior managed to reach the shore and with what help Knowledge could give, he managed to get ashore and thus escaped Failure.

As he looked about him Student Senior discovered that he was now within sight of Graduation, so he entered the city and received the precious key, Diploma. And though we leave him here at the termination of his High School Expedition, Student Senior's journey has not ended, for he will continue to travel through the gates called Jobs and down the chamber of Hard Work until, at last, he has reached the ultimate goal, Success.

—ELEANOR WEAVER.

INKLINGS

A little striped cat—
Her green eyes twinkling,
Her paw uplifted playfully—
Is waiting—and forever waiting,
Imprisoned in a picture frame.

* * *

Four ivory elephants,
Motionless and cold,
Are reflected in the bright, brass plate.
They stand there patiently
And dream cold, ivory, jungle dreams.

* * *

Yellow is cheerful,
And busy little yellow butterflies are cheerful.
They fly in and about the Queen Anne's lace
And here and there in the yellow sunshine.

* * *

A million little breezes rush along.
They laugh and murmur in the cotton woods
And dip and wrinkle in the grasses—
And make me glad.

—GLADYS GRABER.

WHERE THERE ARE MEN

I am hate and fear.

I make men kill and be killed;
I make them fall into the hands of tyrannical
    profiteers,
Who thrive on the blood of men.
I give them courage to brave death
For unholy causes of salvation—
I give them the right to death.

I am everywhere—
Wherever there are men,
Wherever there are thieves and maniacs,
Wherever political seekers
Hold up the false mask of patriotism,
Stirring men up to kill each other—
There am I.

There I shall continue to be
As long as men are men,
As long as there is any distinction
One man from another,
There I'll be.

—DON COLE.

REMEMBERING

A million stars
Are flung
Across the midnight blue;
The soft summer moon is here
Goldenly gleaming.
No creature stirs;
All is silent
Save the murmuring stream
That whispers secrets
Of days long past.
The air is fragrant,
Perfumed with roses and wistaria.
From a far-away hilltop
A lone bird calls mournfully.
The night, the sky, and all are Perfection . . .
You are here.

—JANE KETRING.

DRIFTING

The moon
Was shimmering
On the rippling waves.
The stars
Were dancing
Above.
'Neath the heavens
We drifted—
My dream
And I.

—NAOMI DEVAULT.

A SMILE—A FROWN

A smile from you
And my heart sings;
Then I am carried off on wings
Of sheer happiness.

A frown from you
And the rhapsody
Changes to minor melancholy,
Deeper than dusk.

—MILDRED STEININGER.

YOU AND I

You and I
Were meant to be together;
We two
Meet each morning with a smile
And say good-bye
Each evening with a sigh—
You, the green of the grasses,
And I, the blue of the sky.

—NAOMI DEVAULT.

YESTERDAY

The vaulted arches and illuminated ceilings, the colorful murals and magnificent box seats, the scarlet, velvet carpets which covered the floors, the spacious platform in all its grandeur, the crowds of gorgeously-arrayed men and women—do you remember the grandeur of that old opera house?

I can see you so well. Every Friday evening we attended those brilliant performances, Richard and I; and as we seated ourselves, I would scan the crowds hastily for a glimpse of your eager smile. I was a young woman then, and you were but a child. We used to watch you more than the actors. You were so intent upon all of it that you were unaware of the people about you. Once, at the end of a wonderful Wagnerian performance, I caught your eye, and you very shyly smiled. Oh, I shall never forget your little figure on the edge of the tall seat; you were intensely absorbed in the orchestra and the chorus.

Carmen Lorenzo was at the height of her career then and had given cards to a few singers who might have an interview with her. I saw a white slip of paper clenched tightly in your hand. As you tripped up the big steps to the stage to greet her, you fell; but you were on your feet in the twinkling of an eye, smiling as fascinatingly as ever. I watched with amused joy as you laughingly said, "I don't care how much I fall or how many heels I break, I talked with Carmen Lorenzo!" The star of the afternoon listened to you sing for her. Your voice was lovely. She gave you favorable commendations; and too excited to speak, you raced through the long line of people awaiting their turn, and out the side entrance, eyes flaming—cheeks glowing.

* * * * *

The years passed quickly; we were older and more reserved; you had blossomed into young womanhood, still retaining your vivacious enthusiasm.

One day we met you at the art gallery; another at the theater when some lovely poetry selections were given. Always you were zealous, and oftentimes we felt refreshed by your presence.

Then, quite suddenly, he was gone. My trips to the old opera house were lonely. But still, with each glimpse of your sparkling eyes, I felt as though I had been recreated.

Once, on the crowded streets thronged with people, you appeared among them. Your face was white and pinched; the color was drained from your lovely face. Your contorted countenance wore an expression of sadness. What had happened to take the youthful fervency and innocence from you? What robbed you of your charm? How many times I have wondered whether you ever became the opera singer you so desired to be. As I sit here by the fireside in my big leather chair, I try to believe it was but a moment of fleeting anxiety—that as you hastened through the crowds, your face once again wore that lovely smile.

Years later I returned to the old opera house where we had spent so many hours of enjoyment. This time I was alone and friendless. The building presented a gloomy aspect that was depressing. I shuddered perceptibly as I asked the caretaker for a few moments in the house. He smiled, amusement and pity mingled, as he nodded in assent. Inside, the plaster had fallen from the walls in large pieces and was scattered on the seats and floors. The carpets were dull and worn. The murals were discolored and cracked. The empty stage created the last bit of lonely atmosphere; the magnificent glory had departed. I climbed the flight of stairs to my box and sat down. The chair beneath me creaked, and as I glanced over the darkened room my eyes fell on the first row in the middle section. Was it the third seat you had occupied? Yes, that was it. Why, how funny, you were there!

Suddenly, the house lights flashed on brightly. People began to walk down the aisles to their seats. The musicians were filling the pit and with much clamor, due to the presence of the well-loved Carmen Lorenzo, tuned their instruments in preparation for the gala occasion. The conductor made a gesture to the clarinetist, and then, leaning over the stand, whispered last minute instructions to the string section. There was a moment of hushed silence as the curtains rose; and then the rich, full tones of the overture emerged from the soul of the orchestra, reverberating through the room. The huge baskets of flowers, covering the edge of the stage looked exceedingly picturesque, as the floodlights were focused upon Carmen Lorenzo, who graciously smiled and bowed to the applauding audience. She had smiled a brilliant smile to you. Ah, the great artist remembered the little singer. You nodded to her, and your face became flushed, so grateful you were for the attention. Once during the performance, you looked my way, and I was about to smile when I felt a tap on my shoulder and heard a voice, "I'm sorry, lady, but I've got to lock up now. You'll have to go." Startled into reality, I looked up—to see my maid before me.

"Ah, yes, Agatha, my tea. I had quite forgotten it."

"Poor old lady, she lives always in the past."

A smile crosses my face as I sit in front of the fireplace, my hands folded, my eyes seeking solace from the slowly dying embers of the fire—an old, old woman—living in the past.

3:00 Prof. Brinklow steps on stand. Nothing happens.
3:05 Fulmer gets idea for feature section.
3:10 "Coony" Fidler walks boldly out of school.
3:11 "Coony" caught. Escorted back to school.
3:35 "Slick" Brainard plays one note in tune. Randolph extends congratulations.
3:55 Final bell—mad rush for door.
4:00 School nearly empty.
4:05 Janitors shoulder brooms. Prepare for war—
4:10 Warstler looks for crank.
4:15 "Braidy" Detwiler starts finish lap on track.
4:20 Putt meets Bechtel in office.
4:25 School has been out 30 minutes.
5:00 Braidy takes third lap.
5:15 Putt and Bechtel leave for home.
5:20 Janitors complete first round of halls.
5:25 Julia Schrock leaves school—early.
6:00 Lights out.
6:30 Peace and quiet descend on great institute of learning.

BYE NOW.

Well-known objects around school. Nuf said.

1. What's this, a fashion show? 2. Aren't they BUSY (?) 3. They were probably discussing her "little sister." (Not that he'd be interested!) 4. Two fellows and a girl. 5. Didn't know "Brink" was using a BAT now, did you? 6. Suspended motion of the "maxilla" and "mandible" (jaws to you).

1. "The stars that never shine." 2 and 3. Hi-Y meeting. 4. Last minute coaching by Mr. B. 5. Feminine figure(r).

1. What the G. H. S. students have to "contend with" at their parties. 2. Surprised, Amos?
3. Use your best manners, Mr. Shanklin, they're watching you! 4. "In the groove."

SCHOOL DAYS:

Chewing gum, and paper wads,
In study hall a small boy nods,
Blue slips and yellow slips,
Tardiness, absences, and one who skips,
A friendly nod when met in the hall,
An F, an A, and a teacher's call,
A boy and a girl hand in hand,
Basketball and the high school band,
A yawn, a smile, and a glance at the clock,
Over to the "Limp" and around the block,
All these things we will remember,
As we are nearing next September.

SALUTATORY

Ladies and Gentlemen:

We, the Class of '41 extend to you—our parents, teachers, and friends—a hearty welcome to our Class Day exercises.

Today, we pause to consider briefly our accomplishments of the past four years in Goshen High School. We recall the good times we have had and the many friendships we have made here. Yet the way often has been blocked by obstacles, but with your help and interest we have overcome all to reach the end of the first part of our life's journey. We have reached our first goal—Graduation!

While the rest of the world has been occupied with war and destruction, we have concerned ourselves with building. We realize the strain that will be placed on us in the world tomorrow, but we shall not be unprepared. Under your watchful supervision we have been growing steadily in mind, body, and character.

Tomorrow, we will become only another chapter in the history of our school, but to us it will be a living account to be treasured in our hearts forever. May you grasp some of the significance which we feel this day holds for us.

ARTHUR WEAVER.

CLASS POEM

Like the softly blended colors
Of a rainbow in the sky—
A colorful refrain,
Its rare harmonious beauty
Arched on high;
And the rays of summer sunshine intermingling
With the drops of the mystic, softly-falling
Summer rain;

For at the gate through which we're passing,
We who've trod a common course,
Here must part;
And each upon his chosen path
Go forth
Alone;
But with a dauntless courage,
An ever hopeful heart.

So our hopes and aspirations,
Happy memories, love of friends,
Parting's sorrow,
And the fear of life's uncertainty
Now blend
Within our hearts,
As here we pause upon the threshold
Of tomorrow.

Though the skies above may darken,
Tough the path grow rough, may we,
Ever mindful of our role,
Still press onward, though there be
Lurking hardships and temptations;
And holding to a faith that's constant
Keep our eyes
Upon the goal.

And so as through this world we're passing,
As both its bliss and all its strife
We calmly face;
May we with purer heart, with nobler deed, more perfect life,
Depart in peace,
And know
That we have left the world
A better place.

—ELEANOR WEAVER.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Today, we, the Senior Class of Goshen High School, are reaching a goal toward which we have been striving for many years. But now that we have reached our graduation day we feel that it is proper that we pause to pay tribute to those, who, through their sacrifices and cooperation have made possible the attainment of our goal.

Let me, for a few minutes, draw an imaginary comparison of our education to life and to the achievement of our goal, SUCCESS. Let us imagine a ladder. At the top of this ladder is a sign SUCCESS, which is our goal. As we look at the ladder, we see that it has eight rungs. These signify the first eight years of our school training. Now that we have completed our high school training there are twelve rungs in the ladder, just half way to the top. The last half of the way up the ladder is going to be the most difficult because we will have no one to help us and to guide us, place the rungs in the ladder, as our teachers have done in the past. The remaining twelve rungs will have to be supplied by us, alone, and whether we reach the top or not will depend upon how we apply the fundamentals we have received in our school training.

This jittery, troubled, and complex world that we seniors will be stepping into after today, is a more intricate, a more complicated world than any other senior class has had to face. It is a highly specialized world, a world geared for speed, for efficiency, and for production. A person to succeed today will have to have more courage, a stronger character and a more determined will to win than ever before. However, in our excellent school system we have been trained for this. We have been given this extra courage, drilled for a stronger character and we, the Class of '41, can and we will win in this world, regardless of the difficulties placed before us.

We only hope that we will not be thrown into this terrible conflict that is now raging, so that all of our educational training, our ambitions, our ideals, and our lives, will not be wasted on the battlefield.

Today we pause to pay tribute to those who have made our vast and liberal education possible.

One fall, many years ago it seems, a group of frail and scared freshmen, entered Goshen High School. We were labeled "The Class of '41" and given two excellent sponsors. These sponsors, Miss Peckinpaugh and Mr. French, have served us pricelessly as unfailing guides throughout our four years in G. H. S. We wish to thank them for the many hours they have spent for our happiness.

We have also been very fortunate to have such an excellent school board, superintendent, principal, and staff of teachers. Goshen High has given us the last word in a high school education.

We want to pay tribute to the citizens of Goshen and to our parents who have given us the opportunity of attending such a fine school as Goshen High, in a community where high ideals and high morals prevail.

The underclassmen have contributed greatly to our success by backing all the programs that we have sponsored.

To all these people who have contributed so much to making our high school education such a happy and successful one, we give our heartiest thanks.

We will always remember our high school days in Goshen High and we hereby promise to extend all the high ideals that have so graciously been given to us.

Thank you.

ROBERT M. PRISER.

ORATION

Parents, Teachers, and Friends:

There was once One who said, "Thou shalt not kill."

And this is the philosophy of life in which the Class of '41 has been educated. Since we entered school, twelve years ago, we have been trained in the arts of peace. We have not learned to kill and to tear down, but rather to live and to build. Through athletics, music, debate, yes, through school itself, we have learned to cooperate with our fellow man.

Now formal schooling, for most of us, is over, but this lesson we have learned, and shall remember always; that war accomplishes nothing, that war settles nothing.

We realize, as do you, the grave political, social, and economic problems that lie before us, as yet unsolved. And we feel that with the training you have given us, in these twelve years, we are better equipped than any generation before us to find, or at least to try to find, solutions for them.

But we realize too, the greatest problem before mankind today is war and killing. With the ideals you have instilled in us, we shall earnestly endeavor to make war a thing of the past.

BILL ZENTZ.

JUNIOR ADVICE

Juniors:

Next September you will start the final and most important year in your high school training. We, the seniors, having always had your best interests at heart, would like to extend to you some advice which will help make your senior year more successful.

Your senior year will be the stepping stone into life; whether you expect to continue your schooling in college or not, you will need much preparation, which means a year of diligent, concentrated study. The work will become heavier and more complicated and the competition will be stronger; but after completing a studious senior year, you will be prepared to start out on the course of your choice. You should, in connection with your studies, enter into extra-curricular activities, for a good mind is a broad mind. Sports activities of the school and classes of physical education provide opportunity for physical, as well as mental training. When you have problems that you cannot handle, your sponsors or Mr. Bechtel will be glad to talk them over with you and work out a suitable solution.

As seniors next year, you will have a great responsibility. The actions and behavior of upper-classmen are closely watched, and they will form a standard which the other students will follow. This condition presents a fine opportunity for you to become leaders and set a good example for your younger schoolmates, but also gives you the responsibility of teaching them the proper behavior of a high school student. To do this effectively, you must discontinue any "un-senior-like habits" which you may have acquired in the last three years.

A senior should not be caught running through the halls; especially by a teacher, as a "U" on your report card does not indicate your school spirit even though crimson is one of our school colors. If you are a whistling Tom in the halls, or if you must sing and shout, save this energy for pep-sessions, football games, or basketball games. These events provide plenty of opportunities for letting yourself go.

You have probably learned by this time that while skipping school may be fun, it also puts the burden of make-up work on your shoulders, as well as entitling you to one of those Monday-colored bits of paper, a blue slip—unless you can write like your mother does. Why should you over-burden yourself? Be wise; save your skipping days until vacation.

We also remind you that the senior classes of the past—including us—pride themselves on good records they have left behind them in G. H. S. We have done our utmost to keep their standards high. We feel that through the coming school year you will endeavor to continue the good work of the seniors which have gone before you.

We sincerely hope that the advice which we have been privileged to present to you will be accepted, and used as a key to open for you a studious, enjoyable, and most successful senior year.

JOSEPH A. LEWIS.

CLASS HISTORY

Early in the fall of 1937 the class of '41 held its first meeting. Each member was eager to know what the next four years held for him; what his contribution to the class would be; and what the members, working together, could give to the school. Miss Peckinpugh and Mr. French, the sponsors chosen in that year, both remained with us during the entire four years, giving their advice and aid for all our activities. Our freshman officers were: president, Arthur Weaver; vice-president, Bob Priser; secretary, Evelyn Stark; treasurer, Mary Lou Disosway; and sergeants-at-arms, Bill Stose and Dick Fencil.

During our sophomore year Bob Priser took the lead with Bill Stose as his helper. Mary Lou Disosway and Nancy Pfohl were secretary and treasurer, respectively, while Phil Bickel and Bill Ogle served as sergeants-at-arms.

Class plans and programs were more frequent during the junior year. "Beginners' Luck," a comedy, was the play which was presented under Miss Beaman's capable direction. Bill Stose, the junior president, along with the various committees appointed, carried out a successful junior-senior prom, using the Hawaiian theme. The supporting officers for the year were: Lamar Pafflas, vice-president; Bob Juday, secretary; Wayne Brenneman, treasurer; and Arlene Loucks and Bob Lindhorn, sergeants-at-arms.

Senior days were filled with even more activities—taking senior pictures, selecting announcements and name cards, measuring for caps and gowns—all sorts of preparations for the climax of the four years, graduation. Bob Priser was again elected president; Devon Fulmer, Mary Oyer, Bette Thesen, Max Hile, and "Sid" Gardner served in the offices of vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and sergeants-at-arms, respectively. Mr. Blanding produced a very outstanding play, one of a more serious nature, "Jane Eyre." Betty Johnson and John Atz played the leading parts.

Six students won honor sweaters during the four years: Gladys Graber, Arthur Weaver, Bill Zentz, Wayne Brenneman, Ruth Mendenhall, and Evelyn Stark.

Seventeen seniors were members of the band; fourteen, of the orchestra; and twenty-four, in the choral societies. The class of 1941 has taken a very active part in all these organizations. The orchestra played in the National Music Contest in 1939 and 1941, and the band participated in 1940. A number of seniors entered and gained much success as soloists or ensemblists in the state and national contests during all four years.

Bob Juday, Max Hile, and Junior Schnoebelen were excellent football players during their high school careers; "Butch" Miller, Junior Schnoebelen, Phil Bickel, Bill Stose, Dick Fancil, and Bill Ogle were the senior members on this year's basketball team, which fought through the season with fifteen victories and only four losses. The track team defeated Elkhart's team for the first time in nineteen years. A few outstanding trackmen have been: "Butch" Miller, Bill Ogle, and Albert Coggan. Probably much of the success of all these boys has been due to the efforts of our senior yell leader, Joe Lewis.

So, as we leave Goshen High School, we hope that we have left the school better than we found it.

MARY K. OYER.

CLASS GRUMBLE

Well, here it is in the middle of the summer, almost, and we are still going to school—just because Principal Bechtel and Pop Kintigh were on a fishing trip last fall and didn't want to come home because the fish were biting (?)

Then out of a clear sky our home room (or sleeping period) is changed and we have to wake up before we even come out to this 67 room prison.

But that isn't all! During this school year, if a teacher even smells a candy bar, the poor guy that has it receives a dozen or so U's. Mr. Bechtel explains this as follows (quote) "No one needs candy between meals. I don't eat between meals and look at me."

During third period study hall, Miss Peckinpaugh grabs all comic books as you come in the door. Then every Thursday night she and Miss Deniston get together and read them.

Many members of the faculty are getting childish: They will not allow girls to park their bikes next to the boys' bikes, no umbrellas will be allowed inside the building and any girl seen talking with Bud Kerr will receive a "U".

Then to finish an illustrious four (or five) years they brought "two new inexperienced teachers" inside our fair walls—"Willie" Kerr and "Donnie" Blanding, whose titles are football and dramatic coach, respectively.

In conclusion I have a poem to dedicate to the senior boys:

For four long years I've come out here
To this gloom-stricken school,
When I could have done much better things,
For instance—playing pool.

Every year the teachers try in vain
But allow a lot of us to pass,
'Cause how in the world can the freshmen learn
When the seniors sleep in class?

Of course, I'll thank the principal
'Cause once I forged a name,
But when H. H. B. looked at the note,
I got a blue slip all the same.

BILL BRAINARD.

CLASS PHOPHECY

June 3, 1951.

Dear Dallas:

How's the South American gold mine coming? I'm sorry that you couldn't come to the reunion of the Class of '41 in Chicago. Since you couldn't make it, I'll tell you all about it. Phyllis Blackport is writing to Bill Miller to tell him about it, too. Did you know that he is making a study of kangaroos in Australia?

Some of us from Goshen went together. I stopped for Joan McFarren at her hat shop, Elsie Currier and Phyllis Willig at the bank where they work, and Magdalene Brosy, who had just finished giving a violin lesson. On the train with us were LaMar Paflas, proprietor of the Olympia, also Bill Ogle and Butch Miller who own gas stations across the street from each other. Joe Lewis, conductor on the 20th Century Limited, had the train stopped at Goshen for us. We were glad to see Bob Lindhorn was the engineer; Sid Gardner, the chef; and Betsy Starnes, the stewardess.

Marion Carlin took us in his taxi to the Hile Hotel, where Max greeted us. Elma Dean Paxton, Deloris Wysong, and Ardene Clarke (all married) were already at the hotel. Annabelle Pittman, who is manager of the hotel, went up with us to show us our rooms. Who could the elevator girl be but Mary Alice Schrock!

We ate lunch at Gwaldine Twaddle's restaurant. (Eloise Smith, Norma Hickman, and Betta Lu Cripe, three very efficient secretaries, had given us some tips on where to go for dinner.) Looking around, we saw the pitcher and catcher of the Chicago Cubs baseball team, none other than Bob Juday and Larry Cripe! Wayne Brenneman and Leonard Schrock were discussing scientific farming in another booth. Gene Kalb had already left for Indianapolis, where he had a car entered in the 500 mile race, with Duane Blough as the driver and Jim Pressler as the mechanic.

On our way back to the hotel we stopped off at a large Chicago high school, where some of the members of the Class of '41 are teachers. We found Gladys Graber, dean of girls; and Ralph Gunden, dean of boys; Joyce Yoder, economics teacher; Phil Bickel, boys' gym teacher; and Phyllis Foos, girls' gym teacher. (Quite a coincidence!)

While we were in the hotel lobby we turned on the radio. Switching the dial from station to station we heard Mary Oyer and Mildred Yoder playing in a string quartet, Betty Jane Snyder doing a second "Baby Snooks," John Robert Cripe as a news commentator, and Bill Hartzler appearing as the Lone Ranger.

Went to the business meeting of the reunion, which was presided over by the president of the Alumni Association, Don Goodenough. The main speaker was Senator Arthur Weaver who had his secretary, Miss Frances Beck, along with him.

Margaret Evans read the minutes of the last meeting and Virginia Volz, the treasurer's report. Ernest Yoder took pictures of the occasion and gave one to each of us as a souvenir. Nancy Pfohl, Eleanor Weaver, and Julia Schrock, all noted poets, read some of their selections.

The business meeting being over, refreshments were served by the refreshment committee composed of Dorothy Rieff, Frances Landaw, Rosalie Yenna, and Treva Hertel.

While we were eating we talked to Violet Fry, who had just won $1,000 by betting on Whirlaway II, a horse owned by Junior Schnoebelen. Russell "Coonie" Fidler was the jockey. We also talked to Dick Fancil, who has just invented a rocket ship, and his two assistants, Dick Rumsey and Dick Yoder.

At the meeting we noticed there were quite a few uniforms present—Jim Howard, looking handsome in his U. S. pilot's togs; Don Paff and Bill Cripe, in their navy uniforms; and Everett Billett and Lew Zollinger, representing the U. S. Army. Thelma Maurer, Iva Delle Shedore, and Rosie Landaw were also in uniform, as they're in the army now—as nurses. Hollywood was represented, with Arlene Loucks and DeVon Fulmer among those present.

Among those who couldn't get to the meeting were Bette Thesen and Amos Priser who were competing in a golf tournament. Bette took first place and Amos, second. Kate Hoogenboom and Jane Ketring were in Pago-Pago, where they are missionaries. Sylvia Ganger, Ruth Gordon, and Maxine Kennedy had taken a submarine trip to the South Pole.

I talked to Ruth Eleanor Mendenhall and found that she is now editor of the magazine "Mademoiselle." Julia Ann Goodell writes the travel articles, Beulah Vance and Erdene Phillips, the homemaking articles, and Doris McClish, the beauty articles. Pat Neff and Betty Palmer do the art work.

Went by Helen Hostetler's beauty parlor, where Howard Rohn and Wilfred Herring were barbers. Mary Wagner, Catherine Pietro, and Martha Ogle are manicurists.

Then some of us decided to go bowling at Junior McCrea's Athletic Club. Who should we see there but Bill Stose, who was teaching little Bill, Jr., to play basketball! Doug Randolph was minding his little red-headed offspring while his wife went shopping. Jessie Sunthimer, Mary Jane Thomas, and Pat Stimpson, three of the local "glamour girls" were bowling. Billie and Bobbie Binkley were playing badminton, but stopped; and we all went over to "Phil's Popcorn Stand." Phyllis Zollinger owns a chain of these stands all over the country. Next we went across the street to Ralph Warstler's drug store where we talked to Phyllis Bemenderfer and Arlowene Biller. DeVon Higgins was the clerk who waited on us. As we were finishing our sodas, Don Replogle came in and asked if we'd like to help him pick out a new car. Of course we wanted to go with him. We stopped at Joe Detwiler's bank for some cash; and then down to Gregg Miller's car sales establishment. Gene Hess was the salesman who told us he had just sold a convertible to Anna Catherine Collins. Warren Garber was a mechanic in the garage.

In the evening we all went to Carl Amsden's theatre where we found John Atz and Betty Johnson appearing again in "Jane Eyre." Chuck DeVault and Junior Rensberger are (as you might guess) co-managers of the theatre. From there we went to Al Coggan's cafe, where Betty Becknell was making money on tips as the hat-check girl. We reached our table just as Mildred Steininger finished her vocal. Bill Zentz and his "Smoothies" were furnishing the music. Buck Amos on his sax, and Bill Hostetler at the piano were two of the Goshen boys in his band. Doug Putt and Bill Brainard were causing a riot as a comedy team. At the table next to us Phyllis Bechtel, Betty Geyer, Annette Hottenga, Senora Neff, Mary Grace Spidel, Evelyn Stark, and Zelda Stiffler were celebrating their 10th wedding anniversaries.

You can see we had a grand day and saw most of our classmates. Hope you'll be able to come to our next reunion.

Sincerely yours,
MARY LOU DISOSWAY.

CLASS WILL

We, the class of 1941, nearing the end of our brilliant career in this institution of learning, being of sound mind and disposing intent, to hereby make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament in order that we may pass on our most valued possessions to the less fortunate inmates and to the so-called efficient teachers of knowledge.

We, therefore, will and bequeath to the below named beneficiaries the following items:

SECTION I.

Item I. To the freshmen we bequeath our seats in the Olympia and grant them the privilege of staying there until after nine P. M.

Item II. To the sophomores we bequeath our undisputed ability for dating. Please use it to the best advantage.

Item III. To the juniors, because of our depleted financial condition, we are unable to leave anything but love and kisses and wish them a very, very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

SECTION II.

Item I. To the basketball squad we leave our ability and may they be able to cope successfully with any future New Paris team and retrieve our lost pride. (A-hem.)

Item II. To the football teams of the future, we, the graduating team, do respectfully leave all the warmers, shoes, tape, etc., that we were unable to get our hands on.

SECTION III.

Item I. "Dynamite" Paflas leaves his nickname to Jim Loser.

Item II. Jessie Sunthimer and Pat Stimpson leave a little bit of everything they have to Ruth Mullarkey and Doris Bryner.

Item III. Amos Priser leaves his leadership ability to any future senior presidents who find the going tough.

Item IV. Arthur Weaver, Gladys Graber, and Bill Zentz leave their scholastic ability to everyone—(there's certainly enough to go around.)

Item V. Mary Jane Thomas wills her height to Dottie Bowers ( $\frac{1}{2}$  plus  $\frac{1}{2}$  equals 1 whole).

Item VI. Bob Juday gives his curly locks (which incidentally the girls are crazy about) to Ted Ogle and hopes Ted will profit by them as he has.

Item VII. Mary Lou Disosway leaves her feminine appeal to Glendora Burke. (Here's hoping it won't go to her head).

Item VIII. John Robert Cripe gladly gives his job as sound man to Ted Lydon.

Item IX. Ruth Eleanor Mendenhall bequeaths her horse to Van Peck—may he gallop to many touchdowns!

Item X. Joe Lewis leaves his position as cheerleader to anyone with a good pair of lungs and an undaunted determination.

Item XI. Butch Miller finds it difficult to part with anything he has except his "G" pin—and that goes toward Ligonier.

Item XII. "Little" Sid Gardner will his brawn and muscles to little Bobby Goodenough, hoping to make a man of him.

Item XIII. Douglas Putt leaves his er-a-a somewhat radical ideas to David Shank who already has a few of his own. P. S.: He also has a canary yellow suit for whoever wants it. (A bargain!)

Item XIV. Phyllis Zollinger bequeaths her dark hair and flashing eyes to Carol Hollinger.

Item XV. John Atz leaves his baton and drum major's hat to Lewis Klopfenstein who, (he hopes), will strut his stuff next year.

Item XVI. Betty Becknell leaves the dimple in her chin to anyone with a chin big enough to hold it.

Item XVII. Greg Miller leaves his Ford "V-8" to Bonnie Wilson on the condition that she haul only "women".

Item XVIII. Pete Bickel and Phyllis Foos will their recipe for ever-lasting romance to Don Minard and Phyllis Sailor who already have a good start.

Item XIX. Bill Brainard is very generous in giving Phyllis Zentz to Russel Berkey but Betty Johnson doesn't care to give Russel up so easily.

Item XX. All seniors not mentioned above will give their places as seniors to the oncoming juniors and hope that they will hold up the traditions to the best of their ability.

SECTION IV.

Item I. Mr. Bechtel falls heir to one bottle of green ink—it should go very well with the red he used so frequently.

Item II. The golf team (with all due respect to Mr. Blanding's eyesight), bequeath him one dozen, self-illuminating, easy-to-find golf balls and hope he will be better prepared to enjoy the game.

Item III. To Ellen, our new office girl, we gladly return all "U", blue slips, and dirty looks she handed out so freely during the current year.

Item IV. To Mr. French and Miss Peckinpaugh, the only members of our class that we leave behind, we give our heartiest thanks and appreciation for their tireless efforts to help us and guide us through our high school career.

To the aforesaid documents we, the class of 1941, do hereby affix our hand and seal on this 4th day of June, in the year of our Lord nineteen and forty-one.

Signed,

BILL STOSE.

VALEDICTORY

During the past years we have worked together toward graduation, bound by mutual interests. We have been directed by our friends and counselors, and not always have we accepted our full share of the responsibility. Now, as we are about to leave high school, many of us wonder what we can do to reach successfully our aims in life. For only a brief time will we remain together as a group. Differing interests will take some of us to colleges and universities and others of us into the schools of experience immediately. But wherever we go, there are many principles of truth, friendship, and service, in addition to our formal education and training, that will help us to accomplish our ideals.

We have learned that certain traits of character are more important than information alone. We know that honesty is the only policy; that kindness and sincerity make a person worthwhile; and that reverence and respect are indeed important. Our studies have taught us valuable lessons in concentration and application, and we have developed an interest in other people around us.

Parents, teachers, friends—we young people need your further encouragement and help to carry out these ideals in the experiences before us. It is not an easy task; but with your help, with our own determination for the right, and with guidance from above, may each one of us find true success and happiness.

G. GRABER.

STUPID

The train was just pulling out when the breathless Bill Stose dashed to the ticket window. "Hurry up," he gasped, "Gimme a round-trip ticket." "Where to?"

Bill looked at the ticket man in disgust. "Back here," he panted. "Where didja think?"

WPA AGAIN

A man from Kansas was looking into the depths of the Grand Canyon. "Do you know," said the guide, "it took millions of years for this great abyss to be carved out?"

The man from Kansas was tremendously impressed. "You don't tell me," he commented. "Why, I didn't know this was a government job."
